Engaging Families and Community

Communicating and working with parents

Parents and guardians are any school’s strongest allies for helping students achieve and thrive to their fullest potential. Robust two-way communication with students’ families cultivates a relationship between the home and the school that puts the families squarely on the school’s team when working with students.

The percentage of students in the school whose parents responded to the SALT Survey

Parent Participation Rates

- This school
- R.I. middle schools

Parental involvement in school governance is essential to effective education.

Percent of teachers who agree or strongly agree:

- This school
- R.I. middle schools

Teacher practices and attitudes

- This school
- R.I. middle schools

* Too few responses to report
? Inadequate data submitted

Too few responses to report
? Inadequate data submitted

Too few responses to report
? Inadequate data submitted

Too few responses to report
? Inadequate data submitted

* Too few responses to report
? Inadequate data submitted

They use parents as school resources or volunteers.

They are home unsupervised 3 or more hours a day, 3 or more days a week.

That the community supports this school.

The extent to which parents and the community are supportive of the school and its program.

What Parents Say

What Teachers Say

Percent of parents who report that the school does well:

Percent of teachers who report that at least weekly:

Percent of parents who report that they agree or strongly agree that:

Percent of teachers who report that at least monthly:

Robust two-way communication between home and school is essential to effective education.

Teachers on their team or grade level maintain positive relationships with students’ parents.

They meet with individual parents to solve problems and provide assistance.