Highlights from the school

The Met graduated its second year of seniors in June 2001, and once again all were accepted into colleges (at over 35 different institutions).

The Met was acknowledged nationally as a model secondary school site for its structure, curriculum and training of principals.

It received a national Mentoring award, acknowledging that all of its students had mentors outside of school, who also developed Learning Plans with these students and their teachers to guide the curriculum inside the school.
